

Captain Darth Aurelius serves as the founding father and commanding officer of the Incel Protection Force as well as the founder and leader of the Incel Liberation Movement.

While a life-long involuntarily celibate man, Captain Aurelius began his formal affiliation with the incel community in the summer of 2018 when he first joined incels.is and very quickly became a prominent and even notorious forum user, renowned for his extensive and eloquently written threads on all manner of fascinating topics which included reverence for the achievements of the Third Reich, encouraging adherence to the laws of Sharia and of course, advocating for the creation of an incel movement. Captain Aurelius is a genuine oldcel and, at the relatively advanced age of 44, has achieved venerable status as a so-called “wizard” after suffering many decades of sexual privation and concomitant psychological and emotional disconsolation.

To add insult to injury, Captain Aurelius is both feared or regarded with contempt by attractive women notwithstanding his being 6’3, 220 lbs, extremely muscular, statusmaxxed and very high IQ. These personal characteristics along with his undeniable charm, charisma and natural assertiveness have paradoxically made his status as an incel even more frustrating and incomprehensible when he is surrounded by vastly lesser, weaker and stupider men who frolic about in public with their harems of Stacy’s while Darth languishes in perpetual isolation. This tragic irony and cruel fate is what first compelled Captain Aurelius to identify with the plight of the Eternal Founding Father of the incel movement, Elliot Rodger. Captain Aurelius finds particular consolation in the inspired pages of My Twisted World, which he has read four times, and can relate to the peculiar sufferings of Saint Rodger.

Captain Aurelius is uniquely qualified to serve as the leader of the incel movement both on the basis of his extensive educational credentials as well as his practical, real world leadership experience. Captain Aurelius graduated summa cum laude with a double major in history and political science from an elite midwestern institution of higher learning (a “public ivy” research university). After working in various menial jobs and thus accruing considerable insights into the plight of those comrades in the incel movement who have been consigned to a life of wage slavery, Captain Aurelius applied to and was accepted in to a second-tier law school. Captain Aurelius earned a Juris Doctorate with a specialization in international criminal law and immediately subsequent to graduation began working as a district manager for one of the largest providers of contract security services in the United States. After working in the security industry for approximately ten years, Captain Aurelius was invited to join the teaching faculty at a major midwestern university where he spent the next eight years teaching a variety of survey courses to undergraduate students in the disciplines of pre-law, history and political science.

In addition to these considerable professional and educational achievements, Captain Aurelius has extensive military and paramilitary experience having spent three years in an ROTC program (attaining the rank of Cadet Master Sergeant) and serving in the Michigan Militia for approximately six years. Captain Aurelius time in the militia included service as a local squad leader responsible for recruiting and training new personnel, a platoon leader in command of a section of thirty militiamen and finally as an acting battalion commander with the ultimate rank of captain in charge of leading, indoctrinating and managing a formation of sixty militiamen across a large geographical area while reporting directly to the Deputy Commanding General of the Michigan Militia.

Captain Aurelius is honored and privileged to serve on behalf the interests of all those comrades who have committed themselves to advancing the cause of incel liberation. He looks forward to continuing to providing inspiration, guidance, leadership and direction to all of our comrades and to living up to the high expectations which his soldiers reasonably have for their leader and commander.
