

Sumzero serves as the operations manager of the Incel Protection Force as well as the co-chief propagandist and spokesman for the movement.

As a bastard child and result of his mother's secret affair with a Palestinian man Sumzero was notified by his mother at 16 years old that the pathetic man that raised him was not his true father proceeding their recent divorce. Sumzero was raised as a Jew in obligation of his foster father, yet he knew he never quite fit in with his step-father's side of the family. They treated him differently than his step cousin and regarded him as a second class member of their family. It all was made clear after realizing that there was never a drop of Jewish blood in Sumzero's veins to begin with, and in fact, Sumzero was truthfully, fully Arabic. Subsequently he understood why he had always faced their rejection. Making him sit at another table during meals, buying his step cousin everything he wanted and leaving Sumzero with nothing, spraying Sumzero with bug spray. Sumzero understood firsthand that the Jews were always an extremely tribal race.

In school Sumzero noticed it was strange how all his other friends would have their first kiss, hold hands, and date. Yet it never did seem to happen for him. It hit him hard when his best friend kissed his crush. The one that friend zoned him in high school. Both of them knew that he was interested in her. Despite his friend's meaningless apologies a month later after their break up, Sumzero never spoke to him again.

When Sumzero graduated and unknowingly applied to a very "progressive" college, all the women seemed to remind him of his adulterous mother. They had pink, blue, red, and green hair. Covered in piercings and tattoos, they would hold large weekly demonstrations to "end toxic masculinity" and "defund the police." Meanwhile back in their dorms, Sumzero realized many of these same women were actively being passed around by the frat members of the college. One day walking into his dorm room, he saw his roommate naked copulating with one of the many activists roaming the campus, and on top of Sumzero's bean bag next to his bed.

This was the final straw, and Sumzero had fully completed his transformation. (Can you guess what he would later discover about this particular female? Yes. Jewish.) He burned the beanbag, dropped out of college and converted to Islam. The religion of his true people. Finding himself, after countless hours of research, to agree with every tenet of fundamentalist Islam.

Today Sumzero has vowed to reject modern degeneracy, fight for Islam and disenfranchised men like himself at any opportunity.

Sumzero is honored to serve in the IPF as he now understands that his fate was inextricably altered by the Jews for separating him from his true father and the whores who have disgraced and demeaned him his entire life. Sumzero may not have a lot of experience in the working world but he is uniquely qualified for this position due to his unyielding loyalty to his beliefs and cogent vendetta against the IPF's enemies. His heart is with movement and the blood that once senselessly flowed from his veins now flows for Islam. A newfound awareness emerges, shielded by unwavering conviction and the righteousness of Allah. Reborn as a true believer, he awakens to the stark realization that his world was always nothing more than a zero-sum game.